Dear Mr. Noe:

Who black balled me? I have rationalized my own cursed inertia in correspondence by telling myself that I should soon hear from you about my application for membership in the Society. I have intended to write to you ever since August, and now that a desire for a favor is the immediate stimulus of this letter I am moderately embarrassed.

Would you be willing to write a letter to Dr. James Breasted at the Oriental Institute in support of my application for a research fellowship? I have secured several - I don't want too many - but I feel that one from you would be rather impressive. Potent recommenders at the University of Pittsburgh are scarce.

I should like to continue my numismatical studies ~~at~~ under the organized and official auspices of your Society. I hereby re-apply for membership.

I also thank you - very tardily - for your courtesies of last summer. and will you please salute the ladies at New Brunswick?

Yours, Very sincerely,
Calvin W McEwan

Dear Mr. McEwan:

Enclosed are two copies which explain themselves. The original one of October 14th must have gotten lost in the mail; I hope the other is an aid to the fulfillment of your desire.

Yours sincerely,

Secretary.

Dear Mr. McEwan:

Your letter is at hand. It will be necessary to present your name again at the next meeting of our Council, which takes place the second Friday in April. In view of the circumstances, I have no doubt that they will enroll you.

I hope that you will soon be able to write that your application to the Oriantal Institute is successful.

Yours very truly,

Secretary.

Dear Mr. McEwan:

This is to inform you that you are now a duly elected member of the American Numismatic Society, and I hope that this notice will reach you.

I had an acknowledgment of my note to Dr. Breasted, but as those things move very slowly I suppose some time will elapse before you hear from him regarding your application.

Very cordially yours,

Secretary.
